BREMEN FLIES WEST OVER ATLANTIC

TAKE OFF ON FLIGHT NEVER BEFORE MADE

ATTEMPT WESTWARD CROSSING OF NORTH ATLANTIC OCEAN

BARON HUENEFELD, CAPTAIN
KOEHL AND COMMANDANT
FITZMAURICE

By GEORGE MAC DONAGH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Baldonnel Airdrome, Dublin, April 12.—Two Germans and a laughing Irishman today attempted a flight that no man ever before has accomplished—a westward crossing of the North Atlantic.

At 5:38 A. M. today the trim gray monoplane "Bremen" glided down the board runway at Baldonnel field and started towards "Mitchell Field, L. I., or heaven." In it were Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld, Captain Hermann Koehl and Commandant James Fitzmaurice of the Irish Free State air force.

The plane passed out to sea over Costello Bay at 7:05 A. M., the United Press was advised from Galway. The Bremen was performing perfectly, the advices said, but visibility was poor. It was estimated the Bremen was making about 75 miles an hour and it had made the 110 miles between Dublin and Costello Bay in one hour and twenty-seven minutes.

Within thirty-six hours they hoped to be in New York—the first fliers to accomplish a feat that in the past fifteen months has defied four attempts.

Their plane was capable of more than ninety miles an hour flying speed. At that rate and on their own idea that thirty-six hours would be sufficient for the flight they should glide down to a landing on Mitchell field at about noon Friday.

When the plane left it carried sufficient gasoline for 45 hours in the air, it was reported at the field. The fuselage was marked with a German flag and alongside it had been painted a Free State tri-color since Commandant Fitzmaurice joined the expedition.

A Free State airplane accompanied the fliers over Ireland.

The Free State airplane took off at 5:20 A. M. leading many observers to believe that the Bremen was under way. The trans-Atlantic plane, however, did not take the air until 5:38 A. M.

They had superb courage when they left. All plans had been made. The plane had been on the runway for about an hour, its motor roaring through the morning calm.

The three fliers had stood about listening for the slightest deviation from perfection. They pronounced it perfect.

Then the three climbed into the cabin of the Junkers machine. They waved a farewell. A deafening roar that made many of the 500 people at the field—a crowd that included President and Mrs. Cosgrave and the German consul—clasp their hands over their ears.

The plane rolled slowly down the runway, gained speed, then lifted easily and pointed west—out towards the great unconquered spaces of the North Atlantic.

They were away.

Only a few months ago the Hon. Elsie Mackay and Captain Walter Hinchliffe had attempted the same flight. They never were heard of after they left the Irish coast.

This did not bother the stoical Germans or the laughing Irishman. They repeated their slogan of "Mitchell Field, L. I., or Heaven" and said within a short while they would be in New York—beating back over the famed Lindbergh trail.

The fliers were unprepared for a siege on the buffeting north Atlantic seas should their plane be forced down. It is a land plane. One set of wheels was dropped at the take-off. They have no life buoys. They have no radio. There is no life boat. They discarded all of this as a means of lightening the load.

Baron Von Huenefeld carried a pistol, but he said it had no special significance.

They carried oranges, peeled bananas, a special brand of strong coffee, fresh water and slabs of chocolate. They figured the food would be sufficient to appease their appetites in the thirty-six hours they contemplated of flying.

All were sure of success. Shortly before the take-off Koehl went to a little Roman Catholic church near the field and said confession. He was radiant when he came from the church and assured friends at the

TWO INFANTS ARE BURNED TO DEATH; GAS TANK EXPLODES

Bakersfield, Calif., April 12.—(U.P.)—Two infants were burned to death and their mothers were seriously hurt early today when an automobile gasoline tank exploded near here.

The children, one a two months old baby boy and the other a 15 months old girl, were those of Mrs. Cecil Dagen and Mrs. Earl Stearns, respectively.

The blast occurred while a service station attendant was filling the car with gasoline under the light of a hand lantern which he held over the tank.

ACCUSATIONS ABOUT DAM BUILDING

Kansas City, Mo., April 12.—(U.P.)—Lives of hundreds of thousands of southern California citizens are in danger because of the dishonest construction of dams by the city of Los Angeles, according to Andrae B. Nordskog of Los Angeles, chairman of the Southern California rate and traffic commission and president of the Metropolitan Southwest Development Club of Los Angeles.

Nordskog stopped off in Kansas City last night on his return from Washington, where he appeared before the senate irrigation committee. He asserted the collapse of the St. Francis dam in March which caused the death of hundreds of persons demands an immediate government investigation to reveal true conditions in southern California.

"The Mulholland Dam in Hollywood, built by William Mulholland, chief engineer of Los Angeles, who constructed the St. Francis dam, now has great cracks through it and threatens more than 200,000 people in Hollywood."

Nordskog said he would demand the water compounded by the Mulholland dam be drained immediately upon his arrival in Los Angeles. Pictures of the cracks, he said, were presented to the senate irrigation committee while he was in Washington.

Once before, this same "Bremen" started on a trans-Atlantic flight. Last year Von Huenefeld, Koehl and another German started for America. Off the Irish coast they encountered such strong headwinds that the flight was abandoned, and the plane returned to Germany.

St. Jon's Newfoundland, April 12.—An easterly gale with rain along the coast was forecast for this vicinity of the north Atlantic today.

At present visibility is good. There is a light westerly wind which would not interfere with flying conditions.

London, April 12.—The trans-Atlantic airplane Bremen may run into squalls as it nears the north American continent, the air ministry predicted today.

There is rain on the western half of the flight course and squalls which have reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour.

Washington, April 12.—Storm warnings as far as Eastport, Me., and fresh winds for most of the north coast of the United States were predicted today by the United States government weather bureau.

The winds were disagreeable to a north Atlantic flight, the weather reports indicated.

Halifax, N. S., April 12.—A strong raw easterly gale swept down Nova Scotia today, accompanied by showers. Visibility was poor. During the night the temperature dropped below 32, the freezing point.

Defeat of Powerful Thompson-Small-Crowe Political Machine of Illinois Is Complete

TABULATIONS MADE IN THE ILLINOIS PRIMARY

MARGIN OF VICTORY OF THE DENEEN-LOWDEN FORCES INCREASING

GOV. SMALL AND CROWE SUFFERED OVERWHELMING DEFEATS

By C. C. NICOLET
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, April 12.—Defeat of the powerful Thompson-Small-Crowe political machine was complete today, final tabulations in Tuesday's Illinois primary serving only to increase the margin of victory of the alleged forces of U. S. Senator Charles S. Deneen and former Governor Frank O. Lowden.

Governor Len Small and State Attorney Robert E. Crowe of Cook county suffered overwhelming defeats and other administration candidates for state and major Cook county offices were overturned.

Louis L. Emmerson defeated Small for the gubernatorial nomination by a majority which seemed likely to reach 450,000, and Otis F. Glenn defeated Frank L. Smith, who was elected once and appointed twice to the U. S. senate, but never has been allowed to take the oath of office.

Judge John A. Swanson, whose home was bombed during the primary campaign, swamped Crowe in the race for the nomination for state's attorney of Cook county. The record primary vote completely wrecked the political machines of Crowe, Small and Smith and greatly weakened the power of Mayor Thompson.

From the confusion of the primary several important results stood out:

Democratic leaders in the state saw important gains for their party in the wide republican breach, which they believed could not be healed by November.

Supporters of Frank O. Lowden claimed the primary gave the former governor's presidential candidacy new strength.

Mayor Thompson, although suffering a severe blow by defeat of his organization, announced he would not resign. He had been quoted during the campaign as saying he would resign if Crowe were defeated for the state's attorney's nomination.

The primary victory served to strengthen the Deneen organization for Senator Deneen's campaign for re-election in 1930.

Possibility of a grand jury investigation of the terrorism and alleged fraud and ballot box stuffing in Tuesday's primary, and announcement of inquiries by election officers of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and the Chicago Bar Association.

Mayor Thompson put an end to all speculation over his promised resignation when he announced he would not relinquish the office to which he was elected last year.

They were heading westward over the north Atlantic today, hoping they would be first to complete a flight to the United States.

A German baron and captain and an Irish air force commandant were in the Junkers monoplane Bremen which took off from Baldonnel airdrome near Dublin at dawn today. Assuming they had not already met the fate which befell five men and two women before them, the crew of the Bremen had covered a third of their water course by mid-morning.

Only once was the plane, carrying Captain Hermann Koehl, German war ace, Baron Ehrenfried Gunther Von Huenefeld, close friend of the former crown prince, and Colonel James E. They were loaded with 40,000 bushels of wheat, ladders, automobile accessories and other merchandise.

D. A. R. "BLACKLIST" EXCITES COMMENT

FRED R. MARVIN PRODUCES AN-
OTHER CALLED "PROFES-SIONAL PATRIOTS"

New York, April 12.—(U.P.)—Fred R. Marvin, director of the Key Men of America and the man said to be responsible for the Daughters of the American Revolution "blacklist" has produced a "blacklist" of patriots and supporters of the present form of government.

He said the list was taken from "professional patriots."

Among those on the second "blacklist" were:

William K. Vanderbilt; General John J. Pershing; William B. Dawes, Chicago business man; John Hays Hammond; Charles Piez, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Assn.; Thomas E. Wilson, president of the Chicago Packing Company of the same name; Henry Harrison Lewis, Washington editor; George B. Lockwood, former secretary of the republican committee.

Fred R. Marvin, director of the Key Men of America; James M. Beck, former solicitor general; Thomas L. Blanton, Texas, congressman; William J. Burns, head of the Burns Detective Agency; former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, Albert Fall; Edward Denby; A. Mitchell Palmer, former alien property custodian.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have been ridiculously misled and should apologize publicly for their "blacklist," Dr. Frederick Lynch, educational secretary of the Church Peace Union, said today.

"They have been duped by a class of men who have even gone so far as to list Chief Justice William Howard Taft among the Bolsheviks," Lynch said.

Lynch revealed additional names of persons included in the blacklist. They are:

Bishop Brewster of Rhode Island; President Nielson, of Smith College; Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, editor of the Forum; President MacCracken of Vassar College; Ida M. Tarbell, author; and Franklin D. Roosevelt, once democratic nominee for vice president of the United States.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION BUSY

TRIAL TRIP BY BARGE TO STILL-
WATER ON ST. CROIX
RIVER

Stillwater, April 12.—(U.P.)—With the Minnesota state prison as one of the largest individual receivers of all-water tonnage in the northwest to receive nearly 2,000 tons of sisal this spring, the civic associations of the city are climaxing their years of effort to secure utilization of the St. Croix river and lakes by the Inland Waterways Corporation.

Thursday an effort will be made by representatives of the civic associations to have one trial trip by barge to Stillwater to test the feasibility of traffic on the St. Croix. The trip likewise would determine what dockage facilities the city would have to provide for regular barge service.

The first consignment of sisal—a product used in the manufacture of twine—is due in St. Paul late today. This shipment consists of three barge loads. At least nine more barge loads will be consigned to the prison within three weeks. The entire sisal shipment from Mexico this year will be 1,831 tons in 9,157 bales.

INDIFFERENCE EXPRESSED AS TO SHIPSTEAD

LET HIM DO AS HE PLEASES, SAY
THREE SENATORIAL
ASPIRANTS

UNCONCERNED WHETHER HE
FILES FARMER-LABOR, G. O.
P. OR INDEPENDENT

St. Paul, April 12.—(U.P.)—Let Senator Shipstead do as he pleases—file for re-election as a farmer-labor, republican or independent candidate—it makes no difference, was the attitude taken today by the three aspirants for the republican nomination for senator.

The indifference was expressed at the absence of any reply as yet to the telegram sent Sen. Shipstead on Tuesday by the St. Paul Daily News, asking him to state his intentions.

"The decision as to whether he will file as a republican, farmer-laborite or independent rests with Shipstead himself," declared former Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, Minneapolis, one of the candidates.

Reuben V. Thoren, Stillwater, chairman of the Rockne campaign, issued a statement today in behalf of Sen. A. J. Rockne, in which he said:

"The talk that Sen. Shipstead may file as a republican is having no effect on our campaign plans. Sen. Rockne is ready to meet the senior senator from Minnesota either at the primaries or at the general election next November.

"We are confident that the people of the state want a man to represent them in the senate who knows what he stands for, who has the courage of his convictions and a record of political integrity which is unassailable. Sen. Rockne's campaign will go forward on this basis, and will not be affected by this or that rumor."

On behalf of former Mayor Arthur E. Nelson, St. Paul, the third candidate for the republican senatorial nomination, the following statement was issued today:

"Mr. Nelson is too busy and there is too much work to be done at his headquarters to be bothered about what Sen. Shipstead is going to do. The Nelson statewide organization is making rapid headway and the plans and hopes of the other candidates do not interest us."

The Washington correspondent of the United Press today received the following statement from Shipstead:

"The people of Minnesota are entitled to know what my decision will be. In due and proper time I will make a statement."

CHARGED WITH SHOOTING OF CHIEF OF POLICE

Chanute, Kansas, April 12.—(U.P.)—Charged with the shooting Thursday of J. E. Lindquist, chief of police, and A. R. Blunk, a patrolman, during a filling station holdup, Emil Schwindling, 21 years old, was arrested at Eureka and is held in jail in an unknown place.

Secrecy regarding the place of Schwindling's incarceration was maintained as a precaution against violence. The officers were reported improving today.

Police received an inquiry about Schwindling from authorities in Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday.

BROTHER OF DEAD MAN FILES COMPLAINT CHARGING MURDER

Eastland, Tex., April 12.—(U.P.)—Will Schluter was arrested and held in jail today following the filing of a complaint charging him with the killing of R. N. Jackson, who with his wife and six children was found burned to death in their house near Cisco last Friday.

The complaint against Schluter was brought by T. G. Jackson, brother of the dead man, who said he had visited the Jackson home an hour before the tragedy which wiped out the whole family.

MINNESOTA INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS SHOW AN INCREASE

St. Paul, April 12.—(U.P.)—Minnesota income tax collections for the nine-months period ending March 31 show an increase over those over the same period a year ago, according to Levi M. Willcuts, federal internal revenue collector.

Income tax collections since July 1, 1927, total $16,896,000 against $16,144,000 for the same period beginning in 1926.

The increase is $752,000.

CAR PRICES DROP IF FEDERAL AUTO TAX IS REPEALED

ALL MANUFACTURERS HAVE AGREED TO THE RE-DUCTION

CHARGED THAT MANUFACTUR-ERS FORMERLY HAD NOT
GIVEN PUBLIC BENEFIT

Washington, April 12.—(U.P.)—Promise that automobile manufacturers would reduce the price of automobiles three per cent if congress repeals the three per cent federal auto tax was renewed before the senate finance committee yesterday by Roy D. Chapin, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

All manufacturers have agreed to the reduction, Chapin said.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, charged that manufacturers had not given the public the benefit of recent reductions. He contended Henry Ford has collected $25,000,000 annually in freight rates which were never paid by him. He said Ford's practice is to collect full rates from Detroit whereas a large number of his cars were shipped to dealers from nearby assembling plants.

Senator Couzens, republican, of Michigan, formerly associated with Ford, said the practice was justified because Ford had to meet the cost of maintaining assembling plants.

8 AIRDROMES MAY STRETCH ACROSS ATLANTIC

TO PROVIDE 36-HOUR AIRPLANE SERVICE ACROSS THE

TO STRETCH BETWEEN THE
UNITED STATES AND EUROPE

New York, April 12.—(U.P.)—Eight airdromes stretching across the Atlantic will provide 36-hour airplane service between the United States and Europe under the plans of a syndicate headed by Edward R. Armstrong, who conceived the idea.

Armstrong, a consulting engineer of the Dupont Company of Delaware, has been working on the project for two years. The first station will be anchored 400 miles off the Delaware Capes by next spring by the latest, and will cost about $2,500,000.

Financiers, shipping men and railway officials are said to be back of the project. Armstrong said the Dupont Company as an organization is not interested in the plan, but that members of the family probably would help finance the undertaking.

The first seadrome will be named Langley. It will rest on iron legs with a base suction anchorage. On some of the dromes the legs will reach to the bottom of the sea.

Each station will be equipped with hotel accommodations, a weather bureau and a radio. The landing surface will be 1,200 feet.

COSTES, LE BRIX ARRIVE AT BASRA, IRAQ, THIS MORNING

BOMB, HOWEVER, EXPLODES, KILLING MANY BYSTANDERS

MILAN NEWSPAPER RECORDS 14
KILLED AND 45
INJURED

EXPERTS EXAMINE REMNANTS
OF BOMB. A MOST DE-
STRUCTIVE TYPE

Milan, April 12.—(U.P.)—An attempt to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel failed today when a bomb which had been placed in the Piazza Giulio Cesare exploded shortly before the king passed enroute to the Milan fair, killing many bystanders. Complications of the newspaper Il Secolo said 14 persons were killed by the bomb and 45 injured.

The king passed the scene a short time later and went to the fair which he inaugurated amidst the acclaim of a great throng.

Crowds had gathered in the streets awaiting the royal cortege in front of the triumphal arch.

Suddenly there was a frightful explosion. Pieces of the bomb were scattered to all sides into the crowd. Troops and police took charge of the situation.

Victims were given first aid.

The 14 dead were badly mangled. Some of those killed were in the streets. Others were inside houses nearby.

Experts examined the remnants of the bomb and discovered it was of an extraordinarily destructive type. Apparently the bomb had been placed during the night.

It had been connected with electric wires.

When it exploded, it was as though a series of projectiles had been shot. The bomb was hidden in the base of a street lamp on the Piazza Giulio Cesare (Julius Caesar Place) where the electric connection was established.

The victims were in the center of the throng when which had gathered to see King Victor Emmanuel pass. The crowd stampeded.

Women were thrown to the ground, trampled and injured. Soldiers and police organized quickly and restored order.

The king seemed unmoved by the tragedy. He proceeded to the royal palace and was forced to appear on the balcony.

There was a tremendous manifestation of loyalty to the crown.

Later the king visited the hospital and talked to the injured, comforting them.

Messages began to arrive almost immediately the news was flashed throughout Italy. The messages protested against the outrage and renewed expressions of loyalty to the king and to Premier Mussolini.

Mussolini sent a message to the king. He said he had given immediate instructions to the prefects of police throughout all Italy to find the instigators of the explosion.

"All Italy is vibrating with indignation," Il Duce said.

Geneva, April 12.—An unconfirmed dispatch from Como said authorities had discovered an infernal machine today on a railroad over which Premier Mussolini's train, en route from Rome to Milan, was obliged to pass.

OIL MAN KILLS HIS THREE SMALL CHILDREN AND SELF

Nacogdoches, Tex., April 12.—(U.P.)—G. A. Stubblefield, oil man of Chireno, today shot to death his three small children and then killed himself, according to reports here. The shooting occurred at the family home in Chireno. The three dead children are Josephine, 5; Weber, 7, and George Albert, Jr., 12.

Despondency was given as the cause for the triple slaying and suicide.

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—(U.P.)—The state board of pardons late today refused to act in the case of Charlie Birger, notorious southern Illinois gangster sentenced to be hanged tomorrow.

Only the slim chance that an insanity plea might win a stay of execution remained between Birger and the gallows.

Birger was convicted of conspiracy in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, Ill.

SIX BARGES AND TOWBOAT LEAVE ST. PAUL FOR SOUTH

D. A. R. "BLACKLIST" EXCITES COMMENT

FRED R. MARVIN PRODUCES AN-
OTHER CALLED "PROFES-SIONAL PATRIOTS"

New York, April 12.—(U.P.)—Fred R. Marvin, director of the Key Men of America and the man said to be responsible for the Daughters of the American Revolution "blacklist" has produced a "blacklist" of patriots and supporters of the present form of government.

He said the list was taken from "professional patriots."

Among those on the second "blacklist" were:

William K. Vanderbilt; General John J. Pershing; William B. Davies, Chicago business man; John Hays Hammond; Charles Piez, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Assn.; Thomas E. Wilson, president of the Chicago Packing Company of the same name; Henry Harrison Lewis, Washington editor; George B. Lockwood, former secretary of the republican committee.

Fred R. Marvin, director of the Key Men of America; James M. Beck, former solicitor general; Thomas L. Blanton, Texas, congressman; William J. Burns, head of the Burns Detective Agency; former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, Albert Fall; Edward Denby; A. Mitchell Palmer, former alien property custodian.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have been ridiculously misled and should apologize publicly for their "blacklist," Dr. Frederick Church, educational secretary of the Church Peace Union, said today.

"They have been duped by a class of men who have even gone so far as to list Chief Justice William Howard Taft among the Bolsheviks," Lynch said.

Lynch revealed additional names of persons included in the blacklist. They are:

Bishop Brewster of Rhode Island; President Nielson, of Smith College; Dr. Henry Goddard Leach, editor of the Forum; President MacCracken of Vassar College; Ida M. Tarbell, author; and Franklin D. Roosevelt, once democratic nominee for vice president of the United States.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION BUSY

TRIAL TRIP BY BARGE TO STILL
RIVER

Stillwater, April 12.—(U.P.)—With the Minnesota state prison as one of the largest individual receivers of all-water tonnage in the northwest to receive nearly 2,000 tons of sisal this spring, the civic associations of the city are climaxing their years of effort to secure utilization of the St. Croix river and lakes by the Inland Waterways Corporation.

Thursday an effort will be made by representatives of the civic associations to have one trial trip by barge to Stillwater to test the feasibility of traffic on the St. Croix. The trip likewise would determine what dockage facilities the city would have to provide for regular barge service.

The first consignment of sisal—a product used in the manufacture of twine—is due in St. Paul late today. This shipment consists of three barge loads. At least nine more barge loads will be consigned to the prison within three weeks. The entire sisal shipment from Mexico this year will be 1,821 tons in 9,157 bales.

INDIFFERENCE EXPRESSED AS TO SHIPSTEAD

LET HIM DO AS HE PLEASES, SAY
THREE SENATORIAL
ASPIRANTS

UNCONCERNED WHETHER HE
FILES FARMER-LABOR, G. O.
P. OR INDEPENDENT

St. Paul, April 12.—(U.P.)—Let Senator Shipstead do as he pleases—file for re-election as a farmer-labor, republican or independent candidate—it makes no difference, was the attitude taken today by the three aspirants for the republican nomination for senator.

The indifference was expressed at the absence of any reply as yet to the telegram sent Sen. Shipstead on Tuesday by the St. Paul Daily News, asking him to state his intentions.

"The decision as to whether he will file as a republican, farmer-labor or independent rests with Shipstead himself," declared former Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, Minneapolis, one of the candidates.

Reuben V. Thoreen, Stillwater, chairman of the Rockne campaign, issued a statement today in behalf of Sen. A. J. Rockne, in which he said:

"The talk that Sen. Shipstead may file as a republican is having no effect on our campaign plans. Sen. Rockne is ready to meet the senior senator from Minnesota either at the primaries or at the general election next November."

"We are confident that the people of the state want a man to represent them in the senate who knows what he stands for, who has the courage of his convictions and a record of political integrity which is unassailable. Sen. Rockne's campaign will go forward on this basis, and will not be affected by this or that rumor."

On behalf of former Mayor Arthur E. Nelson, St. Paul, the third candidate for the republican senatorial nomination, the following statement was issued today:

"Mr. Nelson is too busy and there is too much work to be done at his headquarters to be bothered about what Sen. Shipstead is going to do. The Nelson statewide organization is making rapid headway and the plans and hopes of the other candidates do not interest us."

The Washington correspondent of the United Press today received the following statement from Shipstead:

"The people of Minnesota are entitled to know what my decision will be. In due and proper time I will make a statement."

CHARGED WITH SHOOTING OF CHIEF OF POLICE

Chanute, Kansas, April 12.—(U.P.)—Charged with the shooting Thursday of J. E. Lindquist, chief of police, and A. R. Blunk, a patrolman, during a filling station holdup, Emil Schwindling, 21 years old, was arrested at Eureka and is held in jail in an unknown place.

Secrecy regarding the place of Schwindling's incarceration was maintained as a precaution against violence. The officers were reported improving today.

Police received an inquiry about Schwindling from authorities in Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday.

BROTHER OF DEAD MAN FILES COMPLAINT CHARGING MURDER

Eastland, Tex., April 12.—(U.P.)—Will Schluter was arrested and held in jail today following the filing of a complaint charging him with the killing of R. N. Jackson, who with his wife and six children was found burned to death in their house near Cisco last Friday.

The complaint against Schluter was brought by T. G. Jackson, brother of the dead man, who said he had visited the Jackson home an hour before the tragedy which wiped out the whole family.

MINNESOTA INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS SHOW AN INCREASE

St. Paul, April 12.—(U.P.)—Minnesota income tax collections for the nine-months period ending March 31 show an increase over those over the same period a year ago, according to Levi M. Willcuts, federal internal revenue collector.

Income tax collections since July 1, 1927, total $16,896,000 against $16,444,000 for the same period beginning in 1926. The increase is $452,000.

CAR PRICES DROP IF FEDERAL AUTO TAX IS REPEALED

ALL MANUFACTURERS HAVE AGREED TO THE RE-DUCTION

CHARGED THAT MANUFACTUR-
ERS FORMERLY HAD NOT
GIVEN PUBLIC BENEFIT

Washington, April 12.—(U.P.)—Promise that automobile manufacturers would reduce the price of automobiles three per cent if congress repeals the three per cent federal auto tax was renewed before the senate finance committee yesterday by Roy D. Chapin, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

All manufacturers have agreed to the reduction, Chapin said.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, charged that manufacturers had not given the public the benefit of recent reductions. He contended Henry Ford has collected $25,000,000 annually in freight rates which were never paid by him. He said Ford's practice is to collect full rates from Detroit whereas a large number of his cars were shipped to dealers from nearby assembling plants.

Senator Couzens, republican, of Michigan, formerly associated with Ford, said the practice was justified because Ford had to meet the cost of maintaining assembling plants.

8 AIRDROMES MAY STRETCH ACROSS ATLANTIC

TO PROVIDE 36-HOUR AIRPLANE
SERVICE ACROSS THE

TO STRETCH BETWEEN THE
EUROPE

New York, April 12.—(U.P.)—Eight airdromes stretching across the Atlantic will provide 36-hour airplane service between the United States and Europe under the plans of a syndicate headed by Edward R. Armstrong, who conceived the idea.

Armstrong, a consulting engineer of the Dupont Company of Delaware, has been working on the project for two years. The first station will be anchored 400 miles off the Delaware Capes by next spring by the latest, and will cost about $2,500,000.

Financiers, shipping men and railway officials are said to be back of the project. Armstrong said the Dupont Company as an organization is not interested in the plan, but that members of the family probably would help finance the undertaking.

The first seadrome will be named Langley. It will rest on iron legs with a base suction anchorage. On some of the dromes the legs will reach to the bottom of the sea.

Each station will be equipped with hotel accommodations, a weather bureau and a radio. The landing surface will be 1,200 feet.

COSTES, LE BRIX ARRIVE AT BASRA, IRAQ, THIS MORNING

Basra, Iraq, April 12.—(U.P.)—The French fliers Diendonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix arrived here at 11 a. m. from Karachi, India, and departed an hour later for Aleppo.

BOMB, HOWEVER, EXPLODES, KILLING MANY BYSTANDERS

MILAN NEWSPAPER RECORDS 14
KILLED AND 45
INJURED

OF BOMB, A MOST DE-
STRUCTIVE TYPE

Milan, April 12.—(U.P.)—An attempt to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel failed today when a bomb which had been placed in the Piazza Giulio Cesare exploded shortly before the king passed enroute to the Milan fair, killing many bystanders. Complications of the newspaper Il Secolo said 14 persons were killed by the bomb and 45 injured.

The king passed the scene a short time later and went to the fair which he inaugurated amidst the acclaim of a great throng.

Crowds had gathered in the streets awaiting the royal cortege in front of the triumphal arch.

Suddenly there was a frightful explosion. Pieces of the bomb were scattered to all sides into the crowd. Troops and police took charge of the situation.

Victims were given first aid.

The 14 dead were badly mangled. Some of those killed were in the streets. Others were inside houses nearby.

Experts examined the remnants of the bomb and discovered it was of an extraordinarily destructive type. Apparently the bomb had been placed during the night.

It had been connected with electric wires.

When it exploded, it was as though a series of projectiles had been shot. The bomb was hidden in the base of a street lamp on the Piazza Giulio Cesare (Julius Caesar Place) where the electric connection was established.

The victims were in the center of the great throng which had gathered to see King Victor Emmanuel pass. The crowd stampeded.

Women were thrown to the ground, trampled and injured. Soldiers and police organized quickly and restored order.

The king seemed unmoved by the tragedy. He proceeded to the royal palace and was forced to appear on the balcony.

The crowd shouted for him.

There was a tremendous manifestation of loyalty to the crown.

Later the king visited the hospital and talked to the injured, comforting them.

Messages began to arrive almost immediately the news was flashed throughout Italy. The messages protested against the outrage and renewed expressions of loyalty to the king and to Premier Mussolini.

Mussolini sent a message to the king. He said he had given immediate instructions to the prefects of police throughout all Italy to find the instigators of the explosion.

"All Italy is vibrating with indignation," Il Duce said.

Geneva, April 12.—An unconfirmed dispatch from Como said authorities had discovered an internal machine today on a railroad over which Premier Mussolini's train, en route from Rome to Milan, was obliged to pass.

OIL MAN KILLS HIS THREE SMALL CHILDREN AND SELF

Nacogdoches, Tex., April 12.—(U.P.)—G. A. Stubblefield, oil man of Chireno, today shot to death his three small children and then killed himself, according to reports here. The shooting occurred at the family home in Chireno. The three dead children are Josephine, 5; Weber, 7, and George Albert, Jr., 12.

Despondency was given as the cause for the triple slaying and suicide.

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—(U.P.)—The state board of pardons late today refused to act in the case of Charlie Birger, notorious southern Illinois gangster sentenced to be hanged tomorrow.

Only the slim chance that an insanity plea might win a stay of execution remained between Birger and the gallows.

Birger was convicted of conspiracy in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, Ill.

THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1928

No. 16

The present editor of "The Knot Hole" is rather a new addition to the city of Brainerd. Thus far we have been wonderfully well received—in fact, well beyond our expectations. To say we like Brainerd is putting it mildly. In fact we fell in love "at sight" and with our old friend "Standard Coal" to back us up—the warmth of our welcome is complete.

Now that the Chicago election is over we expect to see quite a drop in the price of lead.

The difference between husbands and furnaces, they tell us, is this: Husbands go out and get lit; furnaces get lit and go out—unless you use Standard Coal.

A government bulletin here on our desk says that spraying destroys all pests. Better try it on the next book agent.

The wild desert tribes in Africa pay no taxes. We wonder then what makes 'em wild.

We saw a big police dog (or was it a mongrel?) attempt to chase a cat the other day, and she wouldn't chase. She just sat down on the sidewalk and looked at him; and pretty soon he trotted away.

How human! If we can get somebody on the run, how bravely we chase him. But if he stands still and won't run, we lose interest in the chase.

A salesman asked the Scotch farmer to buy a bicycle. "They are cheap now, and I can let you have a good one for $17.00."

"I would rather put the money in another cow," said the farmer reflecting.

"You would look mighty foolish riding around your farm on a cow, now wouldn't you?" said the salesman.

THE KNOT HOLE

Vol 3 THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1928 No. 16

The present editor of "The Knot Hole" is rather a new addition to the city of Brainerd. Thus far we have been wonderfully well received—in fact, well beyond our expectations. To say we like Brainerd is putting it mildly. In fact we fell in love "at sight" and with our old friend "Standard Coal" to back us up—the warmth of our welcome is complete.

The wild desert tribes in Africa pay no taxes. We wonder then what makes 'em wild.

We saw a big police dog (or was it a mongrel?) attempt to chase a cat the other day, and she wouldn't chase. She just sat down on the sidewalk and looked at him; said the farmer he trotted away. How human! If we can get somebody on the run, how bravely we chase him. But if he stands still and won't run, we lose interest in the chase.

Now that the Chicago election is over we expect to see quite a drop in the price of lead.

The difference between husbands and furnaces, they tell us, is this: Husbands go out and get lit; furnaces get lit and go out—unless you use Standard Coal.

A government bulletin here on our desk says that spraying destroys all pests. Better try it on the next book agent.

A salesman asked the Scotch farmer to buy a bicycle. "They are cheap now, and I can let you have a good one for $17.00."

"I would rather put the money in another cow," said the farmer reflecting.

"You would look mighty foolish riding around your farm on a cow, now wouldn't you?" said the salesman.

Said the Scot, "No more foolish than I would milking a bicycle."

WOMEN VOTERS TO HOLD CARD PARTY

League Makes Preparations at Meeting Tuesday for Party April 13

AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Baseball Reports Hold Sway Over "The Lady From Washington" Over Radio

At a meeting of the board of the League of Women Voters at the home of Mrs. Dean White, on Tuesday, extensive plans were made for the entertainment of guests at the card party at the Chamber of Commerce parlors on Friday evening, April 13. Apparently, the committee wasn't at all superstitious, for they were making plans for thirty two tables of players. A few tables will also be held in reserve for those who decide at the last minute that they wish to attend this brilliant party.

Delicious refreshments were planned, as this will probably be the League's one strictly social event of the year. It is expected that the proceeds from this and the membership fees will pay the state quota.

As the program for this board meeting was to be given by "The Lady from Washington," over WCCO it was a disappointment. Everything had to give way to the baseball game between Minneapolis and Indianapolis, it seems. WCCO evidently thinks that its auditors are more interested in baseball than in the passage of legislation in the interest of Mississippi flood sufferers, the McNary-Haugen bill, or even in tax reduction. The baseball fans evidently control the radio—wherever controls legislation.

But the board members were consoled and surprised by being invited, by their hostess, to partake of a generous luncheon.

The next radio dinner, open to the entire membership, will be held at the home of Mrs. John Cummins, and it is to be hoped that there will not be a baseball game on the air. This will be April 24.

The efficient committee chosen by the social committee chairman, Mrs. Rose Parker, consists of the following women: Mesdames Robert Nichol, A. M. Opsahl, C. A. Nelson, A. K. Cohen, Jay Bachelder, John Cummins, Dean White.

MONEY TO PEDDLERS NO AID TO BRAINERD

Leaves City Without Doing Any Good Here: Trade at Home is Urged to Help City

PEDDLER TREK STARTS

Householders Requested to Report Any Complaints Immediately to Police

Through the gates of Brainerd these days are flocking more than the usual number of peddlers with offers to attract the housekeeper to purchase his wares. These peddlers are generally here only a few days, leaving after they have made a canvass of all the residences in the city.

The money given to peddlers and outside firms remains outside while the money spent in Brainerd in the majority of cases remains at home to work for the betterment of the city.

Brainerd money spent at home acts as a revolving fund for the carrying on of the city government, schools, business houses, and industries.

While peddlers are not banned from Brainerd, police are keeping a careful lookout to prevent any unwelcome advances by peddlers in plying their trade. Householders are requested to report any complaints immediately to the local police.

BOY HARPIS IS TO PLAY

Donald David Milne, Duluth Artist, to Play at First Baptist Church

Will Take in Regular Service and Then Give 40 Minute Sacred Concert

A special concert of music will be held at the First Baptist church on Sunday evening when Donald David Milne, the boy harpist of Duluth will be present. He will take part in the regular evening service of the church, and at the close will give a forty minute sacred concert.

CONSTIPATION IS CURSE OF CITIES

90% of Modern City People are Sufferers, Says Science

Soft life and soft diet—they're at the root of the trouble. They cause irregular bowel movements—or movements that are regular, but not complete. Decayed material remains in the intestine to poison the entire system. The results are headaches, lassitude, backache, sleeplessness, bad dreams, nervousness, loss of appetite, lowered vitality and increased susceptibility to serious disease which may result in premature disability or death.

Don't trifle with intestinal poisoning. Cure it—but don't form the dangerous laxative habit! The natural way is best. Add bulk and roughage to your diet—it saved primitive man, and it will save you. Eat natural 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran—it is the best source of the bulk which is so vital to your health.

Warning—be sure you get the right bran. When your doctor says, "Eat bran," he means a true, natural 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran. Because it is uncooked, unsweetened and unadulterated, it really does the work—you get the full, gentle, natural laxative action of the unbroken flakes. Use it to prepare delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, macaroons, doughnuts, apple cake, etc.—recipes are on every package. Your grocer has it—eat it three times a day.

We Are 26 Years Old and Proud Of It

April is a month of memorable events. It was then that Ponce de Leon landed in Florida, the Battle of Lexington was fought and Washington became the first president of our Republic.

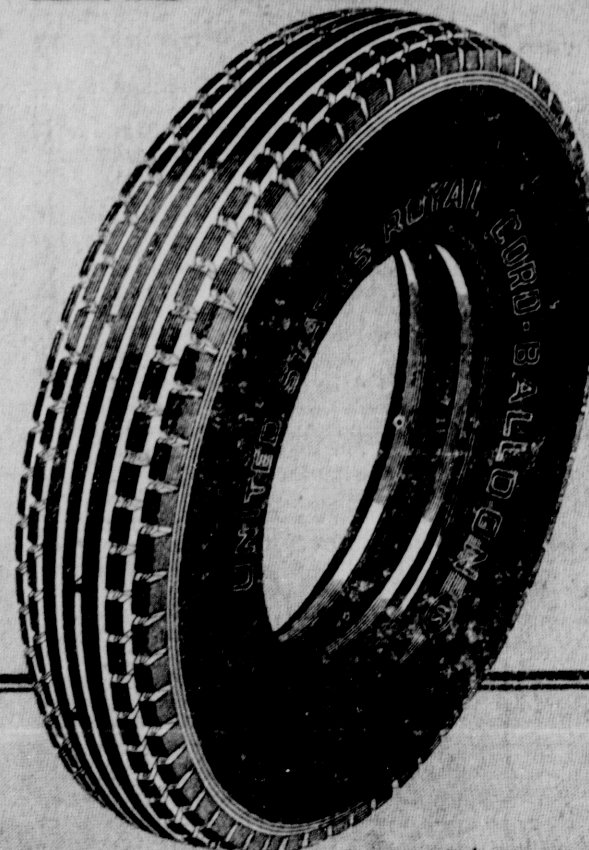

Perhaps when Our Founder opened a small general store twenty-six years ago, on April 14th, there were few who guessed that it would be more than "just another store." Not even he himself could vision the hundreds of stores which would dot a continent and the millions of customers they would serve.

If our progress, however, meant nothing more than that, it would be unimportant—even to us. We measure our success in terms of human service. We count not the number of stores but the communities we serve and a business of over $150,000,000 means only one thing—the opportunity to give you more comforts for your dollar and to bring within the reach of your pay envelope beauty and convenience that was once thought possible only for a privileged few.

We Are 26 Years Old and Proud Of It

April is a month of memorable events. It was then that Ponce de Leon landed in Florida, the Battle of Lexington was fought and Washington became the first president of our Republic.

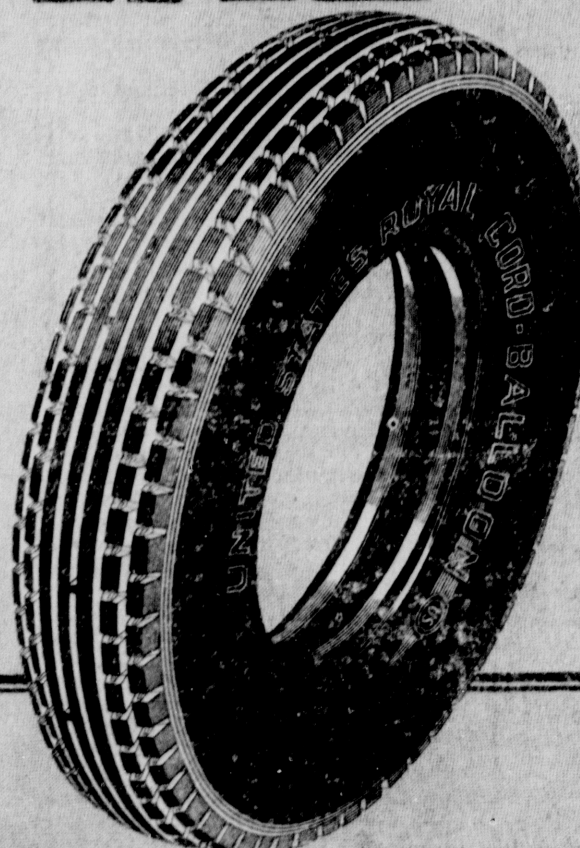

Perhaps when Our Founder opened a small general store twenty-six years ago on April 14th, there were few who guessed that it would be more than "just another store." Not even he himself could vision the hundreds of stores which would dot a continent and the millions of customers they would serve.

If our progress, however, meant nothing more than that, it would be unimportant—even to us. We measure our success in terms of human service. We count not the number of stores but the communities we serve and a business of over $150,000,000 means only one thing—the opportunity to give you more comforts for your dollar and to bring within the reach of your pay envelope beauty and convenience that was once thought possible only for a privileged few.

HONORING A COUNTY AGENT

L. O. JACOB, Anoka county farm agent, will be the honor guest of 1,000 Anoka county farmers at a great county meeting May 7, the eleventh anniversary of the extension and farm bureau work in that county and also the eleventh anniversary of Mr. Jacob's appointment as county agent.

In Mr. Jacob's 11 years of service in Anoka county, as reported in the Minneapolis Journal, the alfalfa acreage has increased from 40 acres in 1917 to 7,000 acres last year. In 1917 no peat land, which covers one-third the surface of Anoka county, was under cultivation. Today 8,000 acres of such land are bearing crops. Twelve hundred boys and girls have taken part in 4-H Club work in the 11 years. A crop experiment station was established at Coon Creek to study soil conditions in the county.

Mr. Jacob was graduated from the Oklahoma Agricultural College in 1913. He went to Anoka the same year to become an instructor in the agricultural department of the Anoka high school. Four years later he became county agent.

He has his own farm a few miles outside of Anoka, on which he has 75 acres devoted to alfalfa. It is the largest alfalfa acreage in Anoka township and one of the largest in the entire county, irrespective of size of farms. He has a purebred Guernsey herd, sheep and Poland China hogs. He has such a large alfalfa acreage, he says, because he practices what he preaches.

Mr. Jacob has been a member of the Anoka County Cow Testing Association since its founding, is president of the board of the consolidated school, has been secretary of the Anoka county fair board since 1913, is president of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs and a director of the Federal Land Bank.

MARRIAGE

A LOT of careless jabber is floating around these days about "companionate" marriages, says the Anoka Herald in an editorial.

In substance the idea seems to be a pre-nuptial agreement by which either party to the contract can escape the responsibilities of the union at will.

It is just the sort of nonsense which might appeal to the light-minded and the irresponsible—not necessarily to the youth of the period but to the silly of any age.

Companionate marriages will not be numerous. They will be "news" for a time because they will be unusual. Presently they will be old stuff as dead as the dodo bird, the hoop-skirt and the taking of snuff at social functions.

Meanwhile two people genuinely in love will have none of such nonsense. They will not quibble over the "obey" in the marriage ceremony. They will want to make their marriage as binding as the laws of God and man can make it.

They will assume cheerfully all of the responsibilities of marriage and, hand in hand, will walk down the path into the future happy in their mutual affection and proud to be fettered securely in the old-fashioned, time-hallowed bonds of matrimony.

No one need worry about companionate marriages. Such stuff will be of interest only to an infinitesimal minority of people, unimportant save to themselves and soon forgotten.

PATERNALISM

How many people understand the real meaning of paternalism in government, asks the Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau.

Paternalism means fathering or mothering. In government it means the assumption by the governing power of a fatherly relation to the people, involving strict and intimate supervision of their business and social concerns, upon the theory that they are incapable of managing their own affairs, says Webster's dictionary.

It is a well known fact in family life that the child which is dominated and controlled by the parent so that its initiative is killed, reaches maturity under a great handicap and unfitted for the struggles and problems of life.

The same rule holds good in government. Where private initiative and enterprise are killed by official control of the individual or operation of his business, the citizen lacks spirit and ambition and the nation stagnates.

FIRE PROTECTION AS THEME

FIRE protection will be the principal theme of the Minnesota Forest week campaign, April 22 to 28.

Co-operation of the public is the prime essential in the prevention of fires, according to a campaign committee statement. Settlers, sportsmen and tourists will be cautioned to use extreme care with fires which in the past years have started the small conflagrations which represent the largest annual damage.

It is pointed out that 26,000,000 acres were at one time given over to timber while at present only 20,000,000 acres are wooded. In the past five years 1,500,000 acres have been burned over, representing a cost of nearly $4,200,000.

More than a score of state-wide organizations are co-operating in the prevention campaign. Chief among them are the Women's clubs, State Forestry association, Arrowhead association and Boy Scouts.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY CONVENTION

THE State Historical society convention at Brainerd June 13 and 14 will be one of the most important ever entertained by this city. It will be rich in results, unearthing historical facts of great value.

Its recognition of the Crow Wing County Historical society is itself most pleasing and accepting their invitation to hold the convention here will draw much attention to Brainerd and the many historical spots in this incomparable lake region.

People who are interested in Minnesota history are invited to attend. State-wide participation is expected. The "historic tour" leaves St. Paul the morning of June 13.

MANKATO is to be given the "once over" by Prof. F. C. Wagner of the University of Minnesota. Data to be gathered in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce will be the consumer purchasing power of the local trade area, retail advertising, freight rates and industrial potentialities.

ST. CLOUD country is gaining fame as an onion growing center. Last year 3,600 bushels of onions were shipped from the Granite City. Certified seed is being purchased by the Chamber of Commerce for distribution to boys and girls clubs of the region.

SYNOPSIS

Danny Malone, a rookie patrolman, is stripped of his badge after a robbery of the Dayton silk warehouse. Danny, lured from his beat by a letter purporting to have been written by his missing brother, Dicky, is unable to offer a defense. His sweetheart, Mary Gillen, and a newspaper reporter, Jimmy Wells, are confident, however, of his innocence and plan to help him. Mary's employer, Alfred Dayton, Jr., is suspected by them as being tied up with the bandit gang and Mary promised to visit a night club with him in the hope of obtaining information. In the meantime, Danny takes a job with a trucking firm dealing in contraband liquor.

"Not so's you can notice," grinned Murphy, "at least not up in Harlem. Those babies up there are too handy with their razors for anyone to butt in unless they're committing murder. Then it depends on whose being carved." "Okay," grinned Danny. "You win, but before this baby believes you, you'll have to have them put on the show."

"Say, we're delivering booze, not drinking it," grinned the other, "but I'm pretty sure I can get you into the Harlem dump. No kidding, it's as bad as I'm telling you." At Seventy-second street a cop bawled them out for passing the light and for a moment Danny's heart leaped in an uncomfortable manner. Then they passed on up-town.

The Orange Grove was on the second floor of a three story building on Lenox avenue at 135th. Wild jazz music was coming from and crimson spotlight caught and held her as she twisted her lovely body into a thousand grotesque shapes.

The music grew unutterably sensuous. A dull pounding of major keys, a monotonous strumming of heavy chords and faster and faster the dancer whirled till her grass skirt flew out straight around her. The light played on her limbs, danced back from her blue black hair. She was lovely, but exquisitely loathly. Suddenly the music changed its style. She caught herself in her stride and in a few voluptuous movements glided back to the table she had left. Her arms slipped around her companion's neck and he followed her to the floor.

Then with his mop of blonde hair rested on hers they danced, her body pressed tightly to his, both of them forgetful of all else.

The music crashed. The orchestra was back and one by one the mob fled back to the floor. What a crowd! thought Danny. All that Murphy had said was true and more so. He had not caught the horror of it, to him it was part of the excitement he sought, but to Danny it was a glimpse into Hell, where Pleasure was the Devil and Happiness the price.

"Let's get out of here," he growled.

Once outside he soon forgot his feelings. They were there, however, and to one who had worked hard all his life and who still appreciated the simple things that constituted his idea of fun, they were something to be forgotten.

The run down to 79th was made in silence. Murphy intent on tak-

the open windows, and occasionally the high laugh of a woman could be heard down on the street.

About twenty cases of Scotch and a couple of cordials were pulled off the back of the truck and across into a freight elevator, then as Danny turned to go back to the truck, Murphy called to him.

"Come on, kid, we've got to lug these down to the bar yet, no one's going to steal the battleship."

Danny was willing enough and when the freighter stopped at the cabaret floor the sudden inferno of noise went a long way towards making him believe the story he had heard on the way uptown.

A multi-colored curtain hid the entrance to the elevator and formed a corridor down the left hand side of the room. At the far end a dark mahogany bar stretched completely across the room and behind it three yellow bartenders bustled around in a vain attempt to keep up with the orders.

In a balcony that jatted out from the wall, a group of negro musicians were discoursing strains that made his blood thrill through him. There was a sort of wicked abandon to the music that made sane thought impossible.

On the polished floor that filled about half of the total floor space a kaleidoscopic mob swirled to the strains of the weird music.

A couple of the negro waiters hurried to help them with their wares and in a few minutes they were ready to leave.

"Care for a drink?" asked Murphy.

"Never mind the drink," answered Dan, "but let's grab a table and look them over for five minutes."

"Okay," answered the other, and a waiter hurried over to bring them the two drinks that the bartender seemed to think in order. As they sat down the music stopped and Dan was able to look at the crowd that surged back to their seats.

They were a queer mixture. At a table a few feet back of them a girl was sitting. Her companion, a dark faced youngster, was looking at her with an expression that made Danny long to kick him. She was leaning back on her chair, a volume of abuse pouring out of her mouth. She looked about seventeen and was of the china doll type. A little slip of a thing, yet the music wasn't fast enough for her and she was swearing like a drunken dockhand.

At the table ahead of them a group of young men were talking to the yellow girls who formed the chorus of the revue. There were insufficient chairs so the girls sat on their knees, grass skirts and all. Here too, the language was loose and risqué. One of them, a girl who must have been at least nine-tenths white, called to the pianist up in the loft and at her request he commenced to play a queer negro fantasy.

The girl sprang from the arms of the boy who was holding her and whirled in a fury of movement into the center of the floor. A yellow ing his truck through traffic with the maximum of speed, Danny still wondering about the things he had seen.

The Red Mill was far different from the place they had just left. A group of far seeing people had purchased a splendid old brownstone house about three doors from the drive and had turned it into one of the most exclusive and expensive night-clubs in New York.

Murphy went to the door and proclaimed the reason for his visit and a pair of colored hallboys came out to help him get the stuff onto the garbage lift that dropped it into the cellar. Danny dia his share and while his companion was inside getting his receipt and the seemingly necessary drink, he went back to the truck and sat himself on the seat to wait.

As he did so he seemed to hear a voice that he knew. A voice that he would have expected to find almost anywhere else except here. It sounded like Mary, and turning round in his seat, he saw that he was right.

She was standing on the top step of the Red Mill. Her cloak thrown across her shoulders, her hair disarrayed, and one shoulder bare where the dress had been torn away.

Obviously she was under the influence of liquor, as she reached one hand away from the door jam and waved to a passing taxi. The cab pulled in and the girl just managed to get inside.

As it pulled away, a man, whom Danny recognised as Dayton, staggered to the door way and shouted after her. He was hopelessly "out." A champagne bottle hung loosely from his hand, and with a last exclamation of disgust, he threw it after the vanishing taxi.

While this was happening, Danny had sat as if frozen. He had hardly recovered from the shock of the Orange Garden and now Mary, his Mary, came out of a similar place apparently as bad as any of them.

When Murphy came out he was sitting with his head in his hands, not caring who saw him, or what they thought about him. Apparently fate wasn't satisfied with wrecking his life, it had to wreck his dreams and ideals into the bargain.

"What's the matter kid," asked Murphy.

"Nothing, just kind o' sick," answered Danny.

"Maybe it's that drink," suggested the other as he sild in the gears.

When Jimmy left the Gillen's home Mary had cheered up considerably. As the door closed she darted to her room and dragged out the evening dress that she wore to the Policeman's Ball and the other political attractions that the daughter of a retired police sergeant had to attend.

When Vilma Banky, star of "The Magic Flame," now at the Lyceum theatre first came to the United States, she stated that she wanted to become an American citizen. The Orange Grove was on the second floor of a three story building on Lenox avenue at 135th. Wild jazz music was coming from and crimson spotlight caught and held her as she twisted her lovely body into a thousand grotesque shapes.

The music grew unutterably sensuous. A dull pounding of major keys, a monotonous strumming of heavy chords and faster and faster the dancer whirled till her grass skirt flew out straight around her. The light played on her limbs, danced back from her blue black hair. She was lovely, but exquisitely loathly. Suddenly the music changed its style. She caught herself in her stride and in a few voluptuous movements glided back to the table she had left. Her arms slipped around her companion's neck and he followed her to the floor.

Then with his mop of blonde hair rested on hers they danced, her body pressed tightly to his, both of them forgetful of all else.

The music crashed. The orchestra was back and one by one the mob filed back to the floor. What a crowd! thought Danny. All that Murphy had said was true and more so. He had not caught the horror of it, to him it was part of the excitement he sought, but to Danny it was a glimpse into Hell, where Pleasure was the Devil and Happiness the price.

"Let's get out of here," he growled.

Once outside he soon forgot his feelings. They were there, however, and to one who had worked hard all his life and who still appreciated the simple things that constituted his idea of fun, they were something to be forgotten.

The run down to 79th was made in silence. Murphy intent on tak-

the open windows, and occasionally the high laugh of a woman could be heard down on the street.

About twenty cases of Scotch and a couple of cordials were pulled off the back of the truck and across into a freight elevator, then as Danny turned to go back to the truck, Murphy called to him.

"Come on, kid, we've got to lug these down to the bar yet, no one's going to steal the battleship."

Danny was willing enough and when the freighter stopped at the cabaret floor the sudden inferno of noise went a long way towards making him believe the story he had heard on the way uptown.

A multi-colored curtain hid the entrance to the elevator and formed a corridor down the left hand side of the room. At the far end a dark mahogany bar stretched completely across the room and behind it three yellow bartenders bustled around in a vain attempt to keep up with the orders.

In a balcony that jutted out from the wall, a group of negro musicians were discoursing strains that made his blood thrill through him. There was a sort of wicked abandon to the music that made sane thought impossible.

On the polished floor that filled about half of the total floor space a kaleidoscopic mob swirled to the strains of the weird music.

A couple of the negro waiters hurried to help them with their wares and in a few minutes they were ready to leave.

"Care for a drink?" asked Murphy.

"Never mind the drink," answered Dan, "but let's grab a table and look them over for five minutes."

"Okay," answered the other, and a waiter hurried over to bring them the two drinks that the bartender seemed to think in order. As they sat down the music stopped and Dan was able to look at the crowd that surged back to their seats.

They were a queer mixture. At a table a few feet back of them a girl was sitting. Her companion, a dark faced youngster, was looking at her with an expression that made Danny long to kick him. She was leaning back on her chair, a volume of abuse pouring out of her mouth. She looked about seventeen and was of the china doll type.

A little slip of a thing, yet the music wasn't fast enough for her and she was swearing like a drunken dockhand.

At the table ahead of them a group of young men were talking to the yellow girls who formed the chorus of the revue. There were insufficient chairs so the girls sat on their knees, grass skirts and all. Here too, the language was loose and risqué. One of them, a girl who must have been at least nine-tenths white, called to the pianist up in the loft and at her request he commenced to play a queer negro fantasy.

The girl sprang from the arms of the boy who was holding her and whirled in a fury of movement into the center of the floor. A yellow ing his truck through traffic with the maximum of speed, Danny still wondering about the things he had seen.

The Red Mill was far different from the place they had just left. A group of far seeing people had purchased a splendid old brownstone house about three doors from the drive and had turned it into one of the most exclusive and expensive night-clubs in New York.

Murphy went to the door and proclaimed the reason for his visit and a pair of colored hallboys came out to help him get the stuff onto the garbage lift that dropped it into the cellar. Danny did his share and while his companion was inside getting his receipt and the seemingly necessary drink, he went back to the truck and sat himself on the seat to wait.

As he did so he seemed to hear a voice that he knew. A voice that he would have expected to find almost anywhere else except here. It sounded like Mary, and turning round in his seat, he saw that he was right.

She was standing on the top step of the Red Mill. Her cloak thrown across her shoulders, her hair disarrayed, and one shoulder bare where the dress had been torn away.

Obviously she was under the influence of liquor, as she reached one hand away from the door jam and waved to a passing taxi. The cab pulled in and the girl just managed to get inside.

As it pulled away, a man, whom Danny recognized as Dayton, staggered to the door way and shouted after her. He was hopelessly "out." A champagne bottle hung loosely from his hand, and with a last exclamation of disgust, he threw it after the vanishing taxi.

While this was happening, Danny had sat as if frozen. He had hardly recovered from the shock of the Orange Garden and now Mary, his Mary, came out of a similar place apparently as bad as any of them.

When Murphy came out he was sitting with his head in his hands, not caring who saw him, or what they thought about him. Apparently fate wasn't satisfied with wrecking his life, it had to wreck his dreams and ideals into the bargain.

"What's the matter kid," asked Murphy.

"Nothing, just kind o' sick," answered Danny.

"Maybe it's that drink," suggested the other as he slid in the gears.

When Jimmy left the Gillen's home Mary had cheered up considerably. As the door closed she darted to her room and dragged out the evening dress that she wore to the Policeman's Ball and the other political attractions that the daughter of a retired police sergeant had to attend.

Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky in "The Magic Flame"

When Vilma Banky, star of "The Magic Flame," now at the Lyceum theatre first came to the United States, she stated that she wanted to become an American citizen. Unfortunately there were some 40,000 Hungarians ahead of her on the lists so she was forced to come into the country on a visitor's passport. Now, by her marriage to Rod La Rocque, the little star becomes automatically an American citizen. "Just try and deport her," says Rod.

Get your dollar's worth

Grandmother reads the latest market prices—"Lands sakes alive!" she exclaims, "why, when I was young we didn't have to pay half so much." Yes, in "the good old days" milk sold at five cents a quart, potatoes at forty cents a bushel, sugar twenty-five pounds for a dollar, and so on. And, in "the good old days" a laborer was paid a dollar a day or possibly a dollar and a quarter. But who wants to go back to "the good old days"? Not you—not me.

Prices are higher now, but wages are higher too. You pay more, but the goods you buy are of better material, they are better made, they last longer. Even foodstuffs are better. Inspection and extra care insure their quality.

The dollar can still buy a dollar's worth. Read the advertising in the newspapers and you will find that they will help your dollars go a long way. Advertising tells you where you can get full value for your money. ### Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)
Yesterday's Hero: Andy Cohen, the young Jewish second baseman, chosen by John J. McGraw to fill Rogers Hornsby's old place in the Polo grounds. Cohen stepped into the limelight by driving in the winning run and contributing three rattling hits to the Giants' 5 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves.

Adolfo Luque's brilliant pitching against the Chicago Cubs, whom the Reds defeated, 5 to 1, has raised Cincinnati hopes for a successful season. Chicago fans are downcast by the loss of Hack Wilson, who will be out for a fortnight as a result of a badly sprained ankle sustained in the eighth inning.

Homers by Jim Bottomley and Frankie Frisch punctuated the 14-7 slaughter of the Pittsburgh Pirates by the St. Louis Cardinals in the opener, in which 31 hits and six errors were made.

Jimmy Ring, veteran right hander, who returned to the Phillies during the winter, demonstrated he still is effective by holding the Robins to seven hits and beating them, 4 to 3.

The Athletics' new combination of Cobb and Speaker has not yet started to function effectively, and the Mackmen tossed the opener to the New York Yankees, 8 to 3.

Sam Gray, traded to the Browns during the winter, pitched winning ball against the Tigers. St. Louis winning the opener, 4 to 1.

The Indians hit Lyons and Connolly hard while old George Uhle held the White Sox in check and beat them, 8 to 2.

Ken Williams, sold to the Red Sox last winter, made a homer and two triples, but the Washington Senators evened the series by winning at Fenway park, 8 to 4.

Husband's Title

The wife of a man whose title is "Dr." may refer to him as such, or, if she prefers, she may speak of him as "Mr." when it is necessary to give her husband a title. Many people refer to the latter as being in better taste. Of course, when a woman is speaking to her social equal she uses neither the phrase, "Mr." nor "Dr." She speaks of him as her husband, or by his given name.

SPORTSMATTER

FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

One of the strange things about the proposed heavyweight championship bout between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney is the absence of the element of hate.

Psychologists and others will tell you that in order to make physical combat between two individuals to say the least interesting, they must hate each other.

For the past nine years, Jack Dempsey was a contender in whatever heavyweight championship matches were held, and whenever Dempsey stepped into the ring one could be sure that he hated his adversary sufficiently to make a fight of it. Dempsey's forte, in fact, was the hate which he was able to conjure up about his opponent.

Against Georges Carpentier, whom he could have defeated under any circumstances, Jack worked up quite a nice little hate because the Frenchman was hailed as the hero of the war, whereas Dempsey had barely made the shipyards.

Against Luis Angel Firpo, Dempsey worked up a hate bred of that first smack on the temple which nearly put him down for keeps.

Jack Dempsey always was a fighter who supplied his own hates to any battle, particularly if it happened to be for the championship of the world. Jack hated Tunney at Philadelphia, not that it did him much good.

As far as is known, Gene Tunney never hated any of his opponents.

I happened to be at the ringside during Gene's fight with Georges Carpentier. The Frenchman had backed Gene against the ropes in the fourteenth round, when suddenly Tunney ripped a right and left to the body.

"Gorgeous Georges," as they called him at the time, wilted and sank to the canvas. The Frenchman clutched his groin and whimpered that he had been fouled.

I never shall forget the twist of Tunney's lips as he glided across the ring to a neutral corner, muttering:

"Faker!"

To Carpentier's credit, it must be said that he got up and motioned to Tunney to come on and finish him—deliver the coup de grace—in the next round. But that was the only occasion, in all the fights in which Tunney has indulged, in which I knew him to lose his temper.

Certainly at Chicago Tunney had only a disinterested sort of sympathy for the beaten Dempsey.

Now, what about the coming fight? Tom Heeney certainly is not the type of man to inspire hate in any opponent. Nor can the New Zealander seem to work up any adequate hate on his own behalf. He and Gene will enter the ring as good friends as they are today—and equally as good friends—they will leave the ring after their battle.

All this militates against public interest in the affair. It is possible that between now and next July some one will work up a lot of reason why Gene and Tom are desperate enemies, but it is more likely that they will enter the ring good friends, each with only an academic interest in the outcome of their fight for the heavyweight championship.

OPENING GAMES SERVE LARGELY AS CRITERION

HEINIE MANUSH AND LOU BLUE
HELP BROWNS BEAT
DETROIT

SAM GRAY, FORMERLY OF THE
ATHLETICS, PITCHES BROWNS
TO VICTORY

New York, April 12.—(UP)—A change of scenery has proved a boon to several major league stars if their work in the opening games can be taken as a criterion.

Heinie Manush and Lou Blue, the two players shunted to the Browns by the Tigers, helped their new club to beat Detroit, 4 to 1. Manush scored two runs and got a single and double. Blue got a double and drove in two of the Browns' runs.

Sam Gray, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, allowed the Tigers only six hits in 8 1-3 innings and pitched the Browns to victory. Blue-older was called to Gray's rescue in the ninth.

Bing Miller, who was with the Browns last season, reacted favorably in the uniform of the Athletics once more. It wasn't Bing's fault that the Yanks won; he got three hits in three times at bat.

Ken Williams, the old St. Louis Browns slugger, showed renewed vigor in a uniform of the Boston Red Sox, driving out two doubles and a home run.

Shanty Hogan, who with Welch was what the Giants got for Hornsby, got a double and drove in two runs for his new club. And he looked like another Bresnahan behind the plate.

Hornsby got only a scratch single in his four efforts.

Davy Bancroft, the former manager of the Boston Braves, started at shortstop for the Brooklyn Robins in spite of an injury. He failed to get a hit and made an error but scored a run.

Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs, outdid Sparky Adams of the Pirates. Cuyler made a single in three times at bat and stole a base. Adams failed to get a hit in five times up.

Harry Rice, the new center fielder of the Tigers, could get but a single in five times at bat.

Lester Bell, 1926 star of the St. Louis Cardinals, who flivvered so badly last season, played a peppy game at third base for his new team, the Braves, but could get only one hit in four times up.

Pinky Whitney, rookie third baseman from New Orleans, starred for the Phillies against the Robins. He made two hits in four times up and drove in two of his club's four runs. Chalmers Cissell, the $123,000 shortstop of the White Sox, scintillated at bat with three hits in four times up but booted two chances in the field.

Wearing the uniform of the Philadelphia Athletics for the first time, Tris Speaker failed to get a hit in five times up.

LIVE DAYS IN HISTORIC CROW WING

By W. W. HARTLEY

NOTE.—From Leon E. Lum collection. Slightly abridged from a previous publication in the Dispatch. Crow Wing County Historical society welcomes reminiscences of early days. Send same to S. R. Adair, president or L. B. Kinder, historian.

I "Notice"
"The Minnesota Stage Co. run a daily line of stages up the Sauk Valley to Sauk Centre and tri weekly to Fort Abercrombie, also tri weekly to Little Falls, Fort Ripley and Crow Wing." (Advertisement of St. Paul and Pacific Ry. Co., in first issue of the Minneapolis Tribune, in 1867, May 25.—L. E. L.)

A lad of twenty-one, employed in a condensed milk factory at Elgin, Illinois, nearly half a century ago, a letter from Crow Wing, Minnesota, told me of construction work under way on the Northern Pacific railway, west from Duluth, surveyed to cross the Mississippi river at Crow Wing, which would soon become a smart town. Work over a hot furnace in the factory was impairing my health and I resigned and took train for Dubuque, Iowa, where I boarded the old river steamer Sucker State and waked next morning in St. Paul and found my way to the depot of the St. Paul & St. Vincent railway, a small, one-story wooden station house, a couple of blocks from the dock and about where the Union depot now stands.

It was here, with this little station house as his initiative, that Jim Hill's great brain conceived the scheme of the Great Northern. The old St. Paul then constructed as far as Sauk Rapids, was originally chartered, through the influence of Clement H. Beaulieu, Sr., of Crow Wing, to run through Crow Wing to St. Vincent.

I stopped over a few days in St. Anthony, now East Minneapolis, where I met several from Crow Wing, among them the owner of a team that he said was eating their heads off at Crow Wing, and I was welcome to use them for their keep, and I met George W. Whitney, who afterward became sheriff of Crow Wing county, (stepfather of Mrs. Henry Spalding, L. E. L.) I saw George, that day, shoulder a barrel of pork, while standing in a half bushel measure. I also met William Hazen of Hazen & —, lumber operators on the Upper Mississippi, who was there shipping supplies to Sauk Rapids to go up river from Crow Wing by steamer, which I engaged to haul to Crow Wing.

With an order in my pocket for the team and large ideas in my head, of what I was going to do to the freight business, I took train for Sauk Rapids where I transferred to the stage for Crow Wing, arriving at my destination after midnight.

Anxious for a letter from home, as the driver delivered the mail bags at the post office, in Peake & Wakefield's store, and the sleepy clerk in pajamas, who slept in the store for that purpose, opened to receive them. I asked if he would kindly look for my letter. If he was sleepy before, he was thoroughly aroused by this and looked his surprise, saying it was a very unusual request, but showed himself the gentleman I afterwards found him to be and gave me my coveted letter. This was my introduction to Clem Beaulieu.

Next morning I was early on the road with my team, but on my first load I found the owner of the team had sold it to Morrison & McArthur, Indian traders at Leech Lake and I was working for them at $12 a month, if I wished to continue.

It was "Steamer Day" in Crow

Wing. The steamer Pokegama, Captain Houghton, owner and commander, making regular trips from Crow Wing to Grand Rapids, was at the dock loading and the town was full of lumber jacks, waiting to go on board, all full or trying to get there. (After the Northern Pacific was completed to Aitkin the Pokegama only ran down to that point, and when the railroad was built to Grand Rapids she went out of commission.)

I muffled the situation that day and looked over the town, which was certainly lively enough to meet my anticipations. Three general stores, four saloons, three hotels, blacksmith shop, telegraph office, express office, barber shop, news stand and cigar store, all doing a rushing business.

I tried several places for a job, but they were all full or too busy to bother with me and the only alternative to the job offered me seemed to be the lumber jack. But a winter in the lumber woods in New Brunswick and my observations that day of the lumber jack at close range did not appeal to me so I started next day for another load, but the road looked different.

I hauled freight from Sauk Rapids and St. Cloud to Crow Wing, Leech Lake, White Earth and Wild Rice river several months, until the completion of the government annuity payments to the Indians at these points, stopping where night overtook me, eating frozen bread and meat and sleeping in the snow. When very cold I scraped away the embers of my camp-fire spreading boughs over the ashes and slept in the freed, waking in the morning buried in snow, crawling out at 40 below zero the air seemed to go through me till I grabbed an axe and chopped wood with all my might till I had a fire built. One morning I waked to find an old squaw had crawled under my blankets during the night. She protested loudly when I rolled them up and put them on my wagon.

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero: Andy Cohen, the young Jewish second baseman, chosen by John J. McGraw to fill Rogers Hornsby's old place in the Polo grounds. Cohen stepped into the limelight by driving in the winning run and contributing three rattling hits to the Giants' 5 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves.

Adolfo Luque's brilliant pitching against the Chicago Cubs, whom the Reds defeated, 5 to 1, has raised Cincinnati hopes for a successful season. Chicago fans are downcast by the loss of Hack Wilson, who will be out for a fortnight as a result of a badly sprained ankle sustained in the eighth inning.

Homers by Jim Bottomley and Frankie Frisch punctuated the 14-7 slaughter of the Pittsburgh Pirates by the St. Louis Cardinals in the opener, in which 31 hits and six errors were made.

Jimmy Ring, veteran right hander, who returned to the Phillies during the winter, demonstrated he still is effective by holding the Robins to seven hits and beating them, 4 to 3.

The Athletics' new combination of Cobb and Speaker has not yet started to function effectively, and the Mackmen tossed the opener to the New York Yankees, 8 to 3.

Sam Gray, traded to the Browns during the winter, pitched winning ball against the Tigers, St. Louis winning the opener, 4 to 1.

The Indians hit Lyons and Connally hard while old George Uhle held the White Sox in check and beat them, 8 to 2.

Ken Williams, sold to the Red Sox last winter, made a homer and two triples, but the Washington Senators evened the series by winning at Fenway park, 8 to 4.

Husband's Title

The wife of a man whose title is "Dr." may refer to him as such, or, if she prefers, she may speak of him as "Mr." when it is necessary to give her husband a title. Many people regard the latter as being in better taste. Of course, when a woman is speaking to her social equal she uses neither the phrase, "Mr." nor "Dr." She speaks of him as her husband, or by his given name.

SPORTSMATTER

FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

One of the strange things about the proposed heavyweight championship bout between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney is the absence of the element of hate.

Psychologists and others will tell you that in order to make physical combat between two individuals to say the least interesting, they must hate each other.

For the past nine years, Jack Dempsey was a contender in whatever heavyweight championship matches were held, and whenever Dempsey stepped into the ring one could be sure that he hated his adversary sufficiently to make a fight of it. Dempsey's forte, in fact, was the hate which he was able to conjure up about his opponent.

Against Georges Carpentier, whom he could have defeated under any circumstances, Jack worked up quite a nice little hate because the Frenchman was hailed as the hero of the war, whereas Dempsey had barely made the shipyard.

Against Luis Angel Firpo, Dempsey worked up a hate bred of that first smack on the temple which nearly put him down for keeps.

Jack Dempsey always was a fighter who supplied his own hates to any battle, particularly if it happened to be for the championship of the world. Jack hated Tunney at Philadelphia, not that it did him much good.

As far as is known, Gene Tunney never hated any of his opponents.

I happened to be at the ringside during Gene's fight with Georges Carpentier. The Frenchman had backed Gene against the ropes in the fourteenth round, when suddenly Tunney ripped a right and left to the body.

"Gorgeous Georges," as they called him at the time, wilted and sank to the canvas. The Frenchman clutched his groin and whimpered that he had been felled.

I never shall forget the twist of Tunney's lips as he glided across the ring to a neutral corner, muttering:

"Faker!"

To Carpentier's credit, it must be said that he got up and motioned to Tunney to come on and finish him—deliver the coup de grace—in the next round. But that was the only occasion, in all the fights in which Tunney has indulged, in which I knew him to lose his temper.

Certainly at Chicago Tunney had only a disinterested sort of sympathy for the beaten Dempsey.

Now, what about the coming fight? Tom Heeney certainly is not the type of man to inspire hate in any opponent. Nor can the New Zealander seem to work up any adequate hate on his own behalf. He and Gene will enter the ring as good friends as they are today—and equally as good friends—they will leave the ring after their battle.

All this militates against public interest in the affair. It is possible that between now and next July some one will work up a lot of reason why Gene and Tom are desperate enemies, but it is more likely that they will enter the ring good friends, each with only an academic interest in the outcome of their fight for the heavyweight championship.

OPENING GAMES SERVE LARGELY AS CRITERION

HEINIE MANUSH AND LOU BLUE
HELP BROWNS BEAT
DETROIT

SAM GRAY, FORMERLY OF THE
ATHLETICS, PITCHES BROWNS
TO VICTORY

New York, April 12.—(UP)—A change of scenery has proved a boon to several major league stars if their work in the opening games can be taken as a criterion.

Heinie Manush and Lou Blue, the two players shunted to the Browns by the Tigers, helped their new club to beat Detroit, 4 to 1. Manush scored two runs and got a single and double. Blue got a double and drove in two of the Browns' runs.

Sam Gray, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, allowed the Tigers only six hits in 8 1-3 innings and pitched the Browns to victory. Blue-older was called to Gray's rescue in the ninth.

Bing Miller, who was with the Browns last season, reacted favorably in the uniform of the Athletics once more. It wasn't Bing's fault that the Yanks won; he got three hits in three times at bat.

Ken Williams, the old St. Louis Browns slugger, showed renewed vigor in a uniform of the Boston Red Sox, driving out two doubles and a home run.

Shanty Hogan, who with Welch was what the Giants got for Hornsby, got a double and drove in two runs for his new club. And he looked like another Bresnahan behind the plate.

Hornsby got only a scratch single in his four efforts.

Davy Bancroft, the former manager of the Boston Braves, started at shortstop for the Brooklyn Robins in spite of an injury. He failed to get a hit and made an error but scored a run.

Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs outdid Sparky Adams of the Pirates. Cuyler made a single in three times at bat and stole a base. Adams failed to get a hit in five times up.

Harry Rice, the new center fielder of the Tigers, could get but a single in five times at bat.

Lester Bell, 1926 star of the St. Louis Cardinals, who flivvered so badly last season, played a peppy game at third base for his new team, the Braves, but could get only one hit in four times up.

Pinky Whitney, rookie third baseman from New Orleans, starred for the Phillies against the Robins. He made two hits in four times up and drove in two of his club's four runs. Chalmers Cissell, the $123,000 shortstop of the White Sox, scintillated at bat with three hits in four times up but booted two chances in the field.

Wearing the uniform of the Philadelphia Athletics for the first time, Tris Speaker failed to get a hit in five times up.

LIVE DAYS IN HISTORIC CROW WING

By W. W. HARTLEY

NOTE—From Leon E. Lum collections. Slightly abridged from a previous publication in the Dispatch. Crow Wing County Historical society welcomes reminiscences of early days. Send same to S. R. Adair, president or L. B. Kinder, historian.

"Notice"
"The Minnesota Stage Co. run a daily line of stages up the Sauk Valley to Sauk Centre and tri weekly to Port Abercrombie, also tri weekly to Little Falls, Port Ripley and Crow Wing."

(Advertisement of St. Paul and Pacific Ry. Co., in first issue of the Minneapolis Tribune, in 1867, May 25.—L. E. L.)

A lad of twenty-one, employed in a condensed milk factory at Elgin, Illinois, nearly fifty a century ago, a letter from Crow Wing, Minnesota, told me of construction work under way on the Northern Pacific railroad, west from Duluth, surveyed to cross the Mississippi river at Crow Wing, which would soon become a smart town. Work over a hot furnace in the factory was impairing my health and I resigned and took train for Dubuque, Iowa, where I boarded the old river steamer Sucker State and waked next morning in St. Paul and found my way to the depot of the St. Paul & St. Vincent railway, a small, one-story wooden station house, a couple of blocks from the dock and about where the Union depot now stands.

It was here, with this little station house as his initiative, that Jim Hill's great brain conceived the scheme of the Great Northern. The old St. Paul then constructed as far as Sauk Rapids, was originally chartered, through the influence of Clement H. Beaulieu, Sr., of Crow Wing, to run through Crow Wing to St. Vincent.

I stopped over a few days in St. Anthony, now East Minneapolis, where I met several from Crow Wing, among them the owner of a team that he said was eating their heads off at Crow Wing, and I was welcome to use them for their keep, and I met George W. Whitney, who afterward became sheriff of Crow Wing county, (stepfather of Mrs. Henry Spalding, L. E. L.) I saw George, that day, shoulder a barrel of pork, while standing in a half bushel measure. I also met William Hazen of Hazen & Co., lumber operators on the Upper Mississippi, who was there shipping supplies to Sauk Rapids to go up river from Crow Wing by steamer, which I engaged to haul to Crow Wing.

With an order in my pocket for the team and large ideas in my head, of what I was going to do to the freight business, I took train for Sauk Rapids where I transferred to the stage for Crow Wing, arriving at my destination after midnight.

Anxious for a letter from home, as the driver delivered the mail bags at the post office, in Peake & Wakefield's store, and the sleepy clerk in pajamas, who slept in the store for that purpose, opened to receive them, I asked if he would kindly look for my letter. If he was sleepy before, he was thoroughly aroused by this and looked his surprise, saying I was a very unusual request, but showed himself the gentleman I afterwards found him to be and gave me my coveted letter. This was my introduction to Clem Beaulieu.

Next morning I was early on the road with my team, but on my return to Crow Wing with my first load I found the owner of the team had sold it to Morrison & McArthur, Indian traders at Leech Lake and I was working for them at $12 a month, if I wished to continue.

It was "Steamer Day" in Crow

Wing. The steamer Pokegama, Captain Houghton, owner and commander, making regular trips from Crow Wing to Grand Rapids, was at the dock loading and the town was full of lumber jacks, waiting to go on board, all full or trying to get there. (After the Northern Pacific was completed to Aitkin the Pokegama only ran down to that point, and when the railroad was built to Grand Rapids she went out of commission.)

I mulled the situation that day and looked over the town, which was certainly lively enough to meet my anticipations. Three general stores, four saloons, three hotels, blacksmith shop, telegraph office, express office, barber shop, news stand and cigar store, all doing a rushing business.

I tried several places for a job, but they were all full or too busy to bother with me and the only alternative to the job offered me seemed to be the lumber jack. But a winter in the lumber woods in New Brunswick and my observations that day of the lumber jack at close range did not appeal to me so I started next day for another load, but the road looked different.

I hauled freight from Sauk Rapids and St. Cloud to Crow Wing, Leech Lake, White Earth and Wild Rice river several months, until the completion of the government annuity payments to the Indians at those points, stopping where night overtook me, eating frozen bread and meat and sleeping in the snow. When very cold I scraped away the embers of my camp-fire spreading boughs over the ashes and slept in the freed, waking in the morning buried in snow, crawling out at 40 below zero the air seemed to go through me till I grabbed an axe and chopped wood with all my might till I had a fire build. One morning I waked to find an old squaw had crawled under my blankets during the night. She protested loudly when I rolled them up and put them on my wagon.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and back-ache.

John Hessel, Jr., who went to Duluth a day or two ago, wired his father yesterday he has accepted a lucrative position with the Ledow Implement Co. of that city, and will travel on the road covering the states of Wisconsin and Iowa. ## INVESTIGATE 4 GIRL STOWAWAYS ABOARD 4 U. S. CRUISERS

Washington, April 12.—(UP)—Sec. of the Navy Wilbur announced today appointment of naval courts of inquiry to ascertain circumstances surrounding discovery of four girl stowaways aboard four cruisers of the scouting fleet, en route from Cuba to northern ports.

Wilbur wants courts to ascertain if the ship's personnel had any part in aiding the girls' stowaway.

SORRY, Jane, but I simply can't go into town today. This is my Kitchen Club day, and I never miss a meeting if I can help it."

"Kitchen Club, Nancy?" came the voice at the town end of the telephone. "What kind of a club is that? I can't imagine an artist's being interested in kitchens!"

"Well, for one thing, Idiot, it's shown me that it takes a greater artist to keep house than it does to paint pictures. You catch the next train, and come out here, and I'll take you to a meeting."

The Kitchen Club to which Nancy Gordon and her neighbors belonged was quite an unusual development for a suburban group of modern young women, most of whom were artists or writers in addition to being the wives of "rising" young business men.

It had grown out of a visit they made to the rectory, to fix up the kitchen there before the new rector and his wife came. Nancy had suggested a new color scheme; someone else had rearranged the furniture; others had stocked the shelves with good things to eat. And before they were through, all the women were envying the rector's wife her new kitchen.

One of them said: "I wish you girls would come over and help me dress up my kitchen." And that began it. They went, made suggestions for improving the kitchen and received in return some most delicious refreshments with the recipes written out for everybody to take home.

After that it became a regular institution, every meeting bringing out new ideas for kitchen improvement, and new recipes. There were no officers, except that each member acted as secretary, writing up in a "Kitchen Club Notebook" the new ideas she received from the other members.

If Jane will come out here often, she will get ashamed of giving her husband delicatessen stuff, and will cook him some real food. Mrs. Gray served us the most delicious refreshments this afternoon. Here are the recipes:

New Recipe for Chicken Salad

Dice the meat from one chicken boiled tender, and salted before it is removed from the fire. Add three chopped hard-boiled eggs, one cup diced celery, one-half cup chopped sweet pickle and three-fourths of a cup of freshly toasted, salted nuts. Season with salt, celery salt and pepper. Mix with enough olive oil mayonnaise to moisten.

Cheese Tea Biscuits

1 quart flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 scant teaspoon soda
1 lump of lard the size of an egg
4 tablespoons grated cheese
Buttermilk to make soft dough

Bake at once in a quick oven. She uses a live heat oven which can be set over one burner of an oil or gas stove, leaving the rest of the stove free for other cooking.

Rearranging an Old-Fashioned Kitchen

Mrs. Gray's kitchen was so large that she wore herself out trying to get around in it. We suggested two things: to group all her furniture in one end, using the other end for a breakfast room; or to put up a wall-board partition, making a separate room to be used for a breakfast room. She decided on the latter. Sketch shows how it will look.

New Covered Broiler

Mrs. Gray has a new kind of covered broiler that cooks meats on both sides at once. It's used on top of the stove. The cover keeps odors from spreading. She says the broiler is fine for baking biscuits as well as for broiling.

PLATTE LAKE

A number of people from here, including the writer of these lines, made a special trip to Brainerd to hear the six famous Bell Ringers at the Clara Lutheran church on the evening of April 2. To say the least, it was simply wonderful. It was the best we had ever seen or heard in that line of music. The six men surely did handle the 205 bells to perfection, producing wonderful harmonious music in all selections. I am sure the effect produced by sight and sound on this occasion will never be forgotten by all present.

In Fred Treichler whose sudden death came as a surprise to many, this community has lost one of its oldest settlers, having resided on his farm since 1889. He was born 1854 at Graudenz, West Prussia; came with his family to this country in 1878. He is survived by one brother and eleven children. The funeral service which was attended by the whole community and friends from far and near, was held at the Dykeman school, Rev. Heidtke officiating. The mortal remains were laid to rest at the Dykeman cemetery.

Last week Wednesday the private garage of Ernest Brand at Pine Center was destroyed by fire and many other articles with it. It was during the noon hour when it started, Mr. Brand having done some welding in the building in the forenoon. No insurance was carried on the building. The neighbors who came to the scene did splendid work in order to save the house and store.

A week ago Monday Mr. Palmer of Garrison who had been ill for a number of years passed away. The Christian burial took place on Wednesday, Rev. Heidtke, who had been his pastor for the last years, officiating. Interment was made at the Oak Grove cemetery.

Carpenters are busily engaged enlarging and improving the residence of Irvine Chrysler. The work is progressing rapidly.

We herewith extend a hearty welcome to two families that have moved into our community: Arch. Co-field on the Chas. Schellin place, near Pine Center, and the Hotin family across from Wm. Marohna.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the sickness and death of our dear mother and grandmother.

CONDUCTS 10 DAY REVIVAL CAMPAIGN

Evangelist E. Frykenberg to be at Swedish Baptist Church, April 13 to 23

SPECIAL CHILDRENS MEETS

Ely and Huddleston Contradict Belief That World is Getting Better

Evangelist E. Frykenberg, a student of the Bethel Seminary at St. Paul, will conduct a revival campaign at the Swedish Baptist church commencing Friday, April 13 to Monday, April 23. Rev. Frykenberg has conducted many other very successful revival campaigns.

There will be special meetings held for the children on Saturdays at 3 o'clock. All children are cordially invited as these are planned especially for them on subjects which they are interested in and a lively song service.

"The world is getting better" has been an often quoted saying but Professor Ely of Hopkins university says: "I must frankly say that I believe we are just beginning to enter a terrible area in the world's history—an area of domestic warfare such as has never been seen, and the end of which God only can see." Mr. Huddleston in the Atlantic Monthly says: "Standing as I do in the capital of Europe—Paris—I see up with my eyes round from this center and I see a world which dances and makes merry in the midst of destruction and death and menace of tomorrow." These are only a few reasons why there is a crying need for a world-wide revival. Every one is invited to attend all the meetings.

Garfield P. T. A.
The Garfield P. T. A. will meet Friday, April 13, at 8 P. M. Election of officers will be held. A large attendance is desired.

Lowell School Team Feted; Coach Kasch Presents Cup to Winners

Dr. A. K. Cohen Tells of Interesting Trip, New York to Panama

Dad's night at the Lowell P. T. A. last evening was a success from start to finish. It was also a night long to be remembered by the champion basketball team of the Graded School Tournament who were seated on an elevated platform in the front of the room with their Coach Carol Guin. The members of the team are: Captain Arthur Holman, David Tempelton, Eugene Swanson, Lester Dryburgh, Howard Haase, Fred Doepke, Donald Smith, Harold Strickler, Robert Johnson, Earl Helgeson.

The program was carried out as previously advertised. Dr. A. K. Cohen's talk on a trip from New York to Panama was instructive, interesting and amusing, and was enjoyed by a full house.

Coach Kasch presented the championship cup to the school, and praised the boys for their splendid work, and he also complimented Carol Guin who has given much of his time to the team. In closing his very fine talk to the boys, Mr. Kasch gave them advice as to their general conduct, showing the spirit of ideal sportsmanship that he is working hard to cultivate in his athletic work in our school. Coach Guin then called the roll, and as each boy stood up they were given a hearty applause by the audience. Captain Holman graciously accepted the cup.

Miss R. Mabel Williams, principal, gave the response for the school showing that the boys were up to grade in their school work. She also said that the support of the homes, churches, and schools helped the team to succeed. Miss Williams talked of the grit the boys displayed in practicing outside almost every day all winter.

Mrs. James Crust was re-elected president, and Mrs. H. C. Forsberg was re-elected vice-president.

The refreshment committee deserves much credit for the manner in which they served the lunch, and they wish to thank the ladies who so generously donated, and have admitted that without the cooperation of the ladies, they would have failed as cooks, although as waiters they are a success.

HI-Y ELECTION

Gaylord Kinney Named President; New Officers Assume Duties Next Fall

New officers elected for next year in the election at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday are Gaylord Kinney, president; Joe Heald, vice president; Richard Ebert, secretary, and Edward Johnson, treasurer. The new officers will assume their duties next autumn at the beginning of the school year when the Hi-Y resumes meetings again.

No meeting was held last evening due to the fact that many of the Hi-Y boys helped with serving the supper at the Episcopal church.

Friday evening and Saturday morning, the Hi-Y officers training conference for this district will be held in Brainerd. Sessions will be held at the Methodist church, commencing with a banquet Friday evening at 6 o'clock. Delegates will be present from about six surrounding towns.

CONDUCTS 10 DAY REVIVAL CAMPAIGN

Evangelist E. Frykenberg to be at Swedish Baptist Church, April 13 to 23

SPECIAL CHILDRENS MEETS

Ely and Huddleston Contradict Belief That World is Getting Better

Evangelist E. Frykenberg, a student of the Bethel Seminary at St. Paul, will conduct a revival campaign at the Swedish Baptist church commencing Friday, April 13 to Monday, April 23. Rev. Frykenberg has conducted many other very successful revival campaigns.

There will be special meetings held for the children on Saturdays at 3 o'clock. All children are cordially invited as these are planned especially for them on subjects which they are interested in and a lively song service.

"The world is getting better" has been an often quoted saying but Professor Ely of Hopkins university says: "I must frankly say that I believe we are just beginning to enter a terrible area in the world's history—an area of domestic warfare such as has never been seen, and the end of which God only can see."

Mr. Huddleston in the Atlantic Monthly says: "Standing as I do in the capital of Europe—Paris—I see up with my eyes round from this center and I see a world which dances and makes merry in the midst of destruction and death and menace of tomorrow." These are only a few reasons why there is a crying need for a world-wide revival. Every one is invited to attend all the meetings.

Garfield P. T. A.
The Garfield P. T. A. will meet Friday, April 13, at 8 P. M. Election of officers will be held. A large attendance is desired.

DADS, CAGE CHAMPS HONORED BY P. T. A.

Lowell School Team Feted; Coach Kasch Presents Cup to Winners

Dr. A. K. Cohen Tells of Interesting Trip, New York to Panama

Dad's night at the Lowell P. T. A. last evening was a success from start to finish. It was also a night long to be remembered by the champion basketball team of the Grade School Tournament who were seated on an elevated platform in the front of the room with their Coach Carol Guin. The members of the team are: Captain Arthur Holman, David Tempelton, Eugene Swanson, Lester Dryburgh, Howard Haase, Fred Doepeke, Donald Smith, Harold Strickler, Robert Johnson, Earl Helgeson.

The program was carried out as previously advertised. Dr. A. K. Cohen's talk on a trip from New York to Panama was instructive, interesting and amusing, and was enjoyed by a full house.

Coach Kasch presented the championship cup to the school, and praised the boys for their splendid work, and he also complimented Carol Guin who has given much of his time to the team. In closing his very fine talk to the boys, Mr. Kasch gave them advice as to their general conduct, showing the spirit of ideal sportsmanship that he is working hard to cultivate in his athletic work in our school. Coach Guin then called the roll, and as each boy stood up they were given a hearty applause by the audience. Captain Holman graciously accepted the cup.

Miss R. Mabel Williams, principal, gave the response for the school showing that the boys were up to grade in their school work. She also said that the support of the homes, churches, and schools helped the team to succeed. Miss Williams talked of the grit the boys displayed in practicing outside almost every day all winter.

Mrs. James Crust was re-elected president, and Mrs. H. C. Forsberg was re-elected vice-president.

The refreshment committee deserves much credit for the manner in which they served the lunch, and they wish to thank the ladies who so generously donated, and have admitted that without the cooperation of the ladies, they would have failed as cooks, although as waiters they are a success.

HI-Y ELECTION

Gaylord Kinney Named President; New Officers Assume Duties Next Fall

New officers elected for next year in the election at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday are Gaylord Kinney, president; Joe Heald, vice president; Richard Ebert, secretary, and Elwood Johnson, treasurer. The new officers will assume their duties next autumn at the beginning of the school year when the Hi-Y resumes meetings again.

No meeting was held last evening due to the fact that many of the Hi-Y boys helped with serving the supper at the Episcopal church.

Friday evening and Saturday morning, the Hi-Y officers training conference for this district will be held in Brainerd. Sessions will be held at the Methodist church, commencing with a banquet Friday evening at 6 o'clock. Delegates will be present from about six surrounding towns.

BREMEN FLIES WEST

OVER ATLANTIC

the over-water flight is only 1,890 miles.

The fliers were supremely confident of success, even though weather reports from the British Isles and North America were foreboding. At Galway the visibility was very bad and, although the British air ministry said they would encounter light westerly winds on the first half of the ocean journey, bad winds awaited them as they neared their American goal.

Half way across the ocean, the air ministry said, the sturdy monoplane might be forced to buck head winds with a velocity of 50 miles an hour.

The United States weather bureau predicted possible storms today on the north coast of the United States and said winds were disagreeable for a westward trans-Atlantic flight from England to America.

Newfoundland was swept by an easterly gale — which means head winds for the fliers — with rain forecast for the Newfoundland coast, where they will see land tomorrow morning if success crowns their venture.

Smiling as they entered the efficient cabin of their monoplane whose wings and wires shone like polished silver in the half-mist of a waking day, the three sped away at 12:38 A. M. (eastern standard time) into the trackless air and over the trackless ocean for America.

Their lumbering plane went 900 yards before its wheels left the ground. Then, slowly, the machine gained altitude and straightened out for the long hazardous undertaking.

It carried 660 gallons of gasoline — a full load — which, it was estimated, would enable the plane to keep aloft for 45 hours, between five and ten hours longer than the estimated duration of the flight.

For 16½ days the two Germans waited for favorable weather to start the flight. Then, with their crew complete by the addition of the Irish air force commandant, and with only a fair break in the weather, they started down the long trail whose end, they said, will be Mitchell field or heaven.

If the flight succeeds the Bremen will reach Mitchell Field some time between noon and evening on Friday.

Everything was sacrificed for speed. The plane is not equipped with safety devices. It has no radio, no life-buoys, no lifeboat. The only consideration of the fliers was to have a light plane.

Von Huenebeck, cocky to the last, wore his monocle as he entered the plane at Baldonnel, and in his pocket was a piece of oil skin in which was wrapped a revolver.

Koehl, smiling even in his grimness, is the epitome of German efficiency. A veteran of the world war's air battles, he expressed the utmost confidence in the ability of the plane to keep aloft in the face of adverse conditions. He went to a Roman Catholic church near Baldonnel a few hours before the flight and made confession.

Colonel Fitzmaurice was not a member of the original expedition which started from Templehof air-drome, Berlin, March 26.

Arthur Spindler, 37, was the mechanic, but at Dublin something happened. Fitzmaurice with a wife and child to support, took Spindler's place. He is acting as second pilot.

Among Brainerd visitors last week were: Ole Tollefson and sons, John Nelson and family, Aaron Ramsdell, Mrs. Wm. Ramsdell, Mrs. C. Klippenes and G. F. Edquist.

Our supervisors were viewing roads Friday and Saturday, both cold disagreeable days. It's an ill wind that blows no one any good, however; the worst mud holes were frozen over.

Friends will be glad to hear that Sam Tollefson will soon be home from the sanatorium, though he is still suffering from rheumatism.

Little Mary Klippenes celebrated her seventh birthday Friday.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Peterson visited them Easter Sunday.

"No, we couldn't, they're living with their people."

Some of the neighbors have been working in the fields but owing to the cold snap they have given up the work for a while. Maybe spring will come after a while.

BREMEN FLIES WEST

OVER ATLANTIC

The over-water flight is only 1,890 miles.

The fliers were supremely confident of success, even though weather reports from the British Isles and North America were foreboding. At Galway the visibility was very bad and, although the British air ministry said they would encounter light westerly winds on the first half of the ocean journey, bad winds awaited them as their nearest their American goal.

Half way across the ocean, the air ministry said, the sturdy monoplane might be forced to buck head winds with a velocity of 50 miles an hour.

The United States weather bureau predicted possible storms today on the north coast of the United States and said winds were disagreeable for a westward trans-Atlantic flight from England to America.

Newfoundland was swept by an easterly gale — which means head winds for the fliers — with rain forecast for the Newfoundland coast, where they will see land tomorrow morning if success crowns their venture.

Smiling as they entered the efficient cabin of their monoplane whose wings and wires shone like polished silver in the half-mist of a waking day, the three sped away at 12:38 A. M. (eastern standard time) into the trackless air and over the trackless ocean for America.

Their lumbering plane went 900 yards before its wheels left the ground. Then, slowly, the machine gained altitude and straightened out for the long hazardous undertaking.

It carried 660 gallons of gasoline — a full load — which, it was estimated, would enable the plane to keep aloft for 45 hours, between five and ten hours longer than the estimated duration of the flight.

For 16½ days the two Germans waited for favorable weather to start the flight. Then, with their crew complete by the addition of the Irish air force commandant, and with only a fair break in the weather, they started down the long trail whose end, they said, will be Mitchell field or heaven.

If the flight succeeds the Bremen will reach Mitchell Field some time between noon and evening on Friday.

Everything was sacrificed for speed. The plane is not equipped with safety devices. It has no radio, no life-buoys, no lifeboat. The only consideration of the fliers was to have a light plane.

Von Huenefeld, cocky to the last, wore his monocle as he entered the plane at Baldonnel, and in his pocket was a piece of oil skin in which was wrapped a revolver.

Koehl, smiling even in his grimness, is the epitome of German efficiency. A veteran of the world war's air battles, he expressed the utmost confidence in the ability of the plane to keep aloft in the face of adverse conditions. He went to a Roman Catholic church near Baldonnel a few hours before the flight and made confession.

Colonel Fitzmaurice was not a member of the original expedition which started from Templehof air-drome, Berlin, March 26. Arthur Spindler, 37, was the mechanic, but at Dublin something happened. Fitzmaurice with a wife and child to support, took Spindler's place. He is acting as second pilot.

NORTH NOKAY LAKE

Mrs. T. C. Pouton suffered a severe stroke of paralysis Friday. Relatives have been summoned to her bedside and at last report her condition was very serious.

Miss Laura Spohn, C. J. Klippenes, and Martin Olson and family were guests at the Wm. Ramsdell home Sunday.

Our school opens Monday with Miss Lois Hall acting as substitute teacher, until the recovery of Miss Spencer.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isle, Sr., is sick.

Clarence Tollefson and Milo Heath ran into a truck on the Iron-ton road, last week. Fortunately, the Ford was equipped with one of the new non-shatterable wind shields, so they were not seriously injured though considerably damage was done to the truck.

Thom Thorson dehorned some cattle for Chas. Klippenes this week.

Among Brainerd visitors last week were: Ole Tollefson and sons, John Nelson and family, Aaron Ramsdell, Mrs. Wm. Ramsdell, Mrs. C. Klippenes and G. F. Edquist.

Our supervisors were viewing roads Friday and Saturday, both cold disagreeable days. It's an ill wind that blows no one any good, however; the worst mud holes were frozen over.

Friends will be glad to hear that Sam Tollefson will soon be home from the sanatorium, though he is still suffering from rheumatism.

Little Mary Klippenes celebrated her seventh birthday Friday.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Peterson visited them Easter Sunday.

Severt Olson visited his son, Martin Olson Monday.

There is considerable interest in the meeting of our town board, Tuesday, when two road overseers will be chosen.

SOUTH LONG LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thienes visited with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Marcomb's son was operated on for tonsillitis and is now on the way to recovery.

Friends and neighbors were glad to see Mrs. Carl Jones up and around again.

Angner Ormseth sold a cow to L. Wiedt at Shady Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Morcomb of Brainerd spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Morcomb.

Mrs. House was a Brainerd shopper Saturday.

Mr. Fredstrom of Brainerd called at C. E. Sutton's last week.

Mrs. George Henningson spent one afternoon last week with Mrs. S. F. Brown.

Delbert Busbey is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Angner Ormseth moved to Brainerd Sunday.

Linda Mustonen had some dentist work done recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Caughey were out for dinner Sunday.

Bert Busbey was a Brainerd visitor Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Brown and son, Arthur, and Miss Lily Anderson motored to Brainerd Sunday and attended services at the Baptist church.

Old folks at home:

"Dear, if the worst came to worst, we could go and live with your parents."

"No, we couldn't, they're living with their people."

Some of the neighbors have been working in the fields but owing to the cold snap they have given up the work for a while. Maybe spring will come after a while.

The Misses Dillon and Doris Olson visited school one afternoon during their Easter vacation.
